Subject: Waymo | Los Altos Hills - Update

Dear Mr. Cahill & Sarah --

This is an exciting time for Waymo in California! As you already know, the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) granted Waymo's permit to test fully driverless vehicles, without a driver in the front seat, on public roads. I wanted to follow up with some relevant information, so that you have it all in one place.

We started this process back in April when we updated you to let you know that we were preparing to submit an application to California DMV's Driverless Autonomous Vehicle Tester Program (see our original email from April below).

You can view this application – which includes further information on the areas we'll be driving, the vehicles we'll have on the road, our fleet monitoring in the state, and more – at the bottom of our blog post. I've also attached it to this email. As for the exact date that testing will begin, we will continue to work closely with you prior to this testing to make sure you have information about when and where our testing will begin. As you know, we've been testing locally for nearly a decade now, and we will introduce driverless testing only when and where we are fully confident in the capability of our technology.

The application also includes our first of its kind safety report, and our recently released guide for police and first responders on interacting with our self-driving vehicles. A separate copy of our Emergency Response Guide and Law Enforcement Interaction Protocol can be accessed at waymo.com/safety, and describes how our vehicles will interact with first responders and the operational design parameters (including the geofenced area) where they will ultimately be tested.

As always, we value your input and questions – please don't hesitate to reach out if you'd like to discuss anything further.

We're looking forward to continuing to work with you, the city, and the Los Altos Hills community!

Best,
Sydnee
